Online and Offline (unpaid) Internship Opportunities at the Center of Excellence for Geopolitics and International Studies (CEGIS), REVA University.

About the Internship:

The Center of Excellence for Geopolitics and International Studies (CEGIS) at REVA University is excited to announce internship opportunities for passionate students and research scholars eager to delve into the areas of geopolitics, geoeconomics, geostrategy, and international legal issues. This short duration internship is designed to provide hands on research experience through both online and offline mode.

Eligibility: Open to students and research scholars with an interest in Geopolitics, Area Studies and International Affairs.

Roles and responsibilities:

This internship provides mentorship from leading experts in geopolitics and international studies. Selected interns will engage in research projects on mutually agreed-upon topics, conducting analyses and presenting their findings to the Center. Additionally, the outcomes of your research will be published on the CEGIS website, offering you a platform to disseminate your work and gain recognition in the field.

Deliverables: As mutually agreed upon.
